

The Accredo Family

HALLOWEEN NEWSLETTER

2024

Our Halloween Day event was a fantastic opportunity to introduce new clients to one another and build a sense of community between our staff and clients across all of our services. It was a fun and engaging way to bring everyone together, and we're excited to announce that we'll be hosting more regular themed days moving forward. These will include learning days, social days, art and craft sessions, and much more. Alongside these activities, we'll be incorporating important life skills, such as cooking, cleaning, and interpersonal skills, to help our clients grow and thrive in a supportive and enjoyable environment. These events will foster connection, personal development, and a sense of belonging for everyone involved.

Happy Halloween!

Accredo Support & Development Ltd

*Thurmaston Centre Manager—
Rainey Spencer-Taylor & Office
Manager—Shayna Solanki*

Our Day Out

Two Clients, Rachel Dann and Karl Stones, from our services in Leicester, joined the party. They dressed up in amazing costumes and put a huge smile on our faces. They joined in on all the fun activities and had the best time engaging with new friends and staff.

Showing off New Skills

One of our clients from Oadby joined us and showed off her table tennis skills. She goes to a weekly table tennis club and took on one of our staff to a one-on-one match. She was victorious.

Well done Gemma!

Our Coventry Additions

Sometimes due to the distance it is hard to bring over our clients from Coventry to our day Centre. But due to some of our most dedicated staff they volunteered to drive them to us and spend the day enjoying the celebrations. I want to give a shoutout to those staff members:

Adesanya Damilare

Muhammad Faizan

Faizan Zafar

So many of our staff joined the fun so a big shoutout to all that did <3

Interacting with Clients

In supported living, allowing clients with both high and low capacities to interact can be incredibly beneficial for their development. When individuals like Ashma, who has limited speech, engage with others, it provides them with opportunities to practice new skills in real-life situations. Today's interaction was a milestone for Ashma as she not only started connecting with new people without hesitation but also tested out new words, expanding her vocabulary. These social interactions are essential for boosting confidence, improving communication, and fostering a sense of inclusion, helping clients build valuable interpersonal skills at their own pace.

Ashma from Thurmaston Centre interacting with a client from our Coventry service (Richard Lal).